“We’re excited to see how HyperMotion Technology will allow us to create a new level of realism in games,” said Oliver Bierhoff, FIFA Game Director at EA. “Everything from the way we create the grass when we hold the camera, to how you move during your run to being tackled. We’re committed to making players feel alive like never before.” FIFA 22 will be available for Xbox One, PlayStation 4, PC, MAC, and STEAM on September 29th in North America, September 30th in Europe, and October 4th in the UK. Check out the trailer and screenshots below for an idea of what FIFA 22 offers.

A fishing boat, according to the title of the article, is visiting the Dardanelles: The unusual visitor is a single-masted Swedish fishing boat which is stranded in the Dardanelles Strait, about 70 km north of Istanbul. The boat was spotted in the deep waters of the Dardanelles strait between the Bosphorus and the Sea of Marmara, the IHS Jane's Information Group, which monitors shipping traffic for Oil Week, said. The reason for the boat's appearance in the strait is not known, but the IHS site is skeptical: "It is unlikely that the boat was operating a solo voyage, but it is difficult to understand the reason for its travel," an IHS spokesman said. "It is possible that the crew could be planning a longer-term stay, but at this stage they are not likely to be planning a return journey." The boat is the Rannes.
