All gone wrong. Finistere... that was then, now it is the present. We know that history repeats itself. Space opera, cyberspace and the grey goo... but up to now very good and successful... Yes it's even lasted this long... but now we live in the future. It was supposed to be a real spaceship, but it appeared in the summer months of 1618. It was clear from the outset that it had flown in from outer space. Some say that they spotted these eight legs of brass. Others have seen them during daylight, before the sunrise they could see... it is small, but the sadness in the eyes of the people on the ground... but there is something much bigger. I want to save you! My name is Dr. Simon Amaryllis. And I have a problem with these demons. First of all, these are no demons. Different from demons and demons in my eyes. Open your mind. The most important things we know about these things... these are no demons but small. Just two meters high. Their skin is blue and shiny. Perhaps they are made out of crystals... Is it realistic to offer a job for life? Is it normal to only work for the people you want to hang out with all the time? These are some of the questions raised in Chris McBride's book, Predictably Irrational, which explains why decisions like these can be surprisingly hard to make, especially when they involve professionals with their own goals and values. (Don't miss McBride's latest

Piloteer is an American neo-psychedelic rock band from the San Francisco Bay Area. Formerly a vehicle for the unconventional songwriting and vocal lines of Michael Stipe, the group has been fronted by Andrew W.K. since January 2009. Band history Early years (1997-2002) Singer/songwriter/producer Anthony Burgess founded Piloteer in the Bay Area of California in May 1997. The band consisted of Burgess on lead vocals and rhythm guitar, bassist Jim Mash on lead guitar, keyboardist Damon Rodriguez on bass, and drummer J.S. Vaughan. Initially Burgess and Mash were found along with percussionist Nate Wray in a club in San Francisco where the trio were known as Earth Damage. After several months they parted ways and the full band was formed. They were joined after a long audition with keyboardist/songwriter Damon Rodriguez, who had apprenticed under Michael Stipe of R.E.M. before moving to a management position. Jim Mash's girlfriend recommended him to Stipe, and Stipe invited him to live with him in Washington, D.C. from 1991-94, then became part of his band. Burgess, after meeting him in 1994, wrote that, "a few months after I met Michael Stipe, he sent a bill for $120,000. I was blown away. I was in love with this guy." In 1999, bassist Jim Mash left Piloteer and was replaced by Damon Rodriguez, whom Stipe had recommended and with whom he toured extensively. The band opened for R.E.M. on several of their tours. Shortly before their album was released, on August 24, 2000, Piloteer performed at the Woodstock Reunion in Watkins Glen, NY. Creatures (2002-03) When Piloteer felt their strong progressive rock background being too much to deal with after touring extensively, they renounced their ties to R.E.M. and decided to go on a limb; touring the country without a solid record deal while developing their songs, implementing countercultural areas, and continuing to create more and more songs that they loved. In August 2002 a few months after their tour ended, they released their first album under this new vision, "Creatures." The album featured guest appearances by Josh Manchester, of Plump DJs fame, on drums and Michael Stipe on vocals on 2 tracks with a guitar solo. They concluded the album by continuing to play live
